

PROFILE

Dr. Bidyadhar Majhi is Adviser (Economics) and head of the Research and Trend Analysis Division in the Competition Commission of India. Prior to that he was Director (Economics) and Joint Director (Economics) in CCI and handling anti-trust matters. Before joining CCI, he was a faculty member of the Indian Institute of Foreign Trade; Shyam Lal College, University of Delhi; Institute of Chartered Accountants of India and Government Autonomous College, Phulbani, Odisha in the area of Economics and also served in the National Sample Survey Office, Government of India. Besides fourteen years professional and administrative experience, Dr Majhi has to his credit eleven years of post-graduate and under graduate teaching experience. He has been engaged in research and writing since last twenty-five years and co-authored several text books on different areas of Economics for the students of Delhi University, Utkal University, Kurukshetra University etc. and developed e-learning materials for the Institute of Life Long Learning, Delhi University. He has also presented research papers in different national and international conferences and published research papers and articles in different peer review journals and edited books. He has also served as a member of Areas Advisory Board, Amity School of Economics and member of editorial boards in different journals. Dr Majhi has delivered lectures on different economic issues and competition law in various institutes of eminence such as Developing Countries Research Centre of Delhi University, KIIT University, Bombay Chamber of Commerce, Amity University, National Law University of Delhi, VIT School of Law, Indian Law Institute, Arun Jaitley National Institute of Financial Management etc. He has also attended training programmes on different areas of Economics and Competition Law in India as well as in some foreign countries.