

Richard J. Pierce, Jr.

Richard J. Pierce, Jr. is Lyle T. Alverson Professor of Law at George Washington University. He has taught antitrust law for over forty years and is co-author of a textbook on antitrust law that is in its Sixth Edition. He has written over 20 books and over 130 scholarly articles on the ways that government agencies make decisions and on the effects of various forms of government intervention on the performance of markets. His books and articles have been cited in hundreds of court decisions, including over a dozen opinions of the United States Supreme Court.